INDUSTRIES WE CATER

HOME CARE

Balancing durability with aesthetics is one of the greatest challenges for brand owners and product designers in the home care industry. Home care product labels often come into contact with a variety of chemicals and extreme environments that could cause the label to deteriorate over time. Whether purchasing laundry care products, surface care products, dishwashing liquids or home insecticides - consumers expect adhesive labels to stick and stay, regardless of the container type or product environment.

PHARMACEUTICALS

As experts in pharmaceutical labeling, we understand the factors that influence label selection for pharmaceutical products. From migration safe label materials with low leachability characteristics to specialized materials that can withstand demanding conditions. Pharmaceutical suppliers play one of the most important roles in our global community. The products they produce enable people to live better lives, while the label on the product helps to protect, inform and secure. All our pharmaceutical packaging and labeling materials are developed to meet or exceed strict industry regulations and safety requirements.

PERSONAL CARE

Clean, bold, fresh or refined. Our product labels for personal care and home care packaging support creative packaging design without compromising on durability and performance. Whatever the conditions, our label solutions stick and stay. Our label materials for personal care packaging, such as cosmetic and beauty packaging, meet industry regulations while helping your product stand out on the shelf with lasting label solutions that retain their visual appeal throughout the product life cycle.

LUBRICANTS

Every label material is tested for enduring adhesion on specific surface types, in a variety of conditions and under exposure to mechanical strain and contact with chemicals. Our solutions support legislative compliance and stay functional for the life cycle of the labelled container. We supply a variety of products with fast deliveries to meet your shortest lead time requirements.

FOOD & BEVERAGE

Spring water, natural smoothie or soft drink? Connect with consumers and stand out on crowded shelves with high-performing self-adhesive labels that offer design versatility and tailored solutions designed to fit around your bottle or can. Heat, moisture and cold can have an impact on the performance and longevity of the label. The label material you choose will be partly defined by the conditions the product is likely to face during its lifetime. Whether purchasing water bottles, soft drinks or food packets, consumers are attracted to creative packaging innovations that convey personality. Textured, coloured and metalized papers or ultra-clear and white films can all be used to create highly-visual and informative labels that make beverages stand out on crowded retail shelves.

AUTOMOBILE & INDUSTRIAL

Safety, information, traceability and the prevention of stock losses – labels for industrial chemicals play an important role in protecting people, businesses and the environment. Printing in-house gives you the versatility to produce hazard warning labels and traceability information on-demand. Our label materials are designed to resist water and environmental stress, protecting label imagery and information for the duration of the product life cycle. Industrial chemical labels are the toughest of the tough. They must withstand exposure to oil and chemicals while maintaining their look even when stored outdoors or in other challenging environments.
